Intellectual Property Rights (IPR) plays a vital role in enhancing the socio-economic prosperity of the country. Creativity and innovation are new drivers of the world economy. With the increasing relevance of Intellectual Property (IP) in this era of globalization, it is important to recognize the role which IP systems play in the growth of the Nation. Thus, there is a need to create large public awareness about the pivotal role of IPR in globalized knowledge economy. With the view to create awareness on the significance of IPR to the people from various sectors in the Country, The Workshop is intended to cover various aspects of IPR like Patents, Copyrights, Trademarks, etc. The technical sessions will be led by the speakers having thorough knowledge in the subject who have been practicing in the field for many years. The power to evolve innovations and thinking in an innovative manner in an organizations can be increased by means of creating Intellectual Property (IP) awareness amongst its employees and students, who are directly or indirectly involved in the process of innovation. The one day IP awareness workshop aims at establishing a basic level of IP awareness amongst the workshop participants, such that the chances of obtaining well-protected innovation (Patents) for their organizations are increased. This workshop would focus on

REPORT

A Conference on “The Role of Intellectual Property Rights in Promoting Innovation in India” was held in Shri Ram College on 23rd May and 24th May, 2022. The conference was organised by Department of Bioscience. The conference started with lamp lightening by respected Dr. S. C. Kulshreshtha (Founder Chairman of Shri Ram group of Colleges). The entire faculty members of Shri Ram College were present in the seminar. Seminar was divided in 4 session. In first session on 23rd May, 2022, Dr. Sourabh Mittal delivered his first talk on “The Intellectual Property Rights and its Types”, in which he explains about IPR Laws provide for civil and criminal action. Furthermore, Dr. Gaurav told about the customs authority power to take action against infringing goods during import and export and utility patent protects the creation of new or improved products, processes, compositions of matter, or machines that are useful.

In second session Dr. Girendra Gautam explains about the “Enforcement and Relevant Patents”. Dr. M.S Khan spoke about patents, like patent is used to prevent an invention from being created, sold, or used by another party without permission. Patents are the most common type of intellectual property rights that come to people’s minds when they think of intellectual property rights protection. The patent owner will have the right to exclude anyone from making, using, or selling this invention for 20 years, starting from the date the patent application was filed.

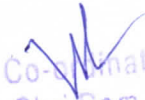

In third session on 24th May, 2022, Dr. Nishant Rathi explains about “Major Measures of Trademark and Copyright”, where he told that trademark is a distinctive sign that allows consumers to identify the particular goods or services a company provides easily. Some examples include McDonald’s golden arch, the Facebook logo, and so on. A trademark can come in the form of text, a phrase, symbol, sound, smell, or color scheme whereas Copyright does not protect ideas. Instead, it only covers “tangible” forms of creations and original work—for example, art, music, architectural drawings, or even software codes.

(03-03-2022 to 10-03-2022)

Organized by: Department of Education & Computer Application
Shri ram college, Muzaffarnagar

Department of Education, Shri Ram College, Muzaffarnagar organized seven days National Workshop on Research Methodology: Concepts and Applications from 03-03-2022 to 10-03-2022. The workshop benefited around 175 participants (142 students from Education department and 33 from department of Computer Application). The workshop covered various areas and techniques of research from identifying research problems to writing a research report. It was a complete package for the participants who got hands on training through the workshop. The research instruments, tools and techniques are an essential prerequisite in conducting empirical research. For undergoing high quality research and writing good research papers, one requires to collect, interpret and logically document the information. The art of drawing coherent conclusions, supported by appropriate research tools and reference citation is vital for quality research work. The entire workshop was spread across 7 days. Each day two sessions were scheduled for smooth management of the workshop. Each day the session started with the session links shared in respective groups. The link contains pre recorded respective session videos by experts.

The details of the each day session are as follows-

Day 1 (Thursday 03rd March, 2022): On the first day of workshop, program coordinator Dr. Pramod Kumar welcomes all Participants with some inspirational quotes. Report

A Two Days Seminar on “Advanced Food Processing Technologies in Agriculture for Entrepreneurship Development” was organized by the Agriculture Department of Shri Ram College. The event was inaugurated by Dr. Perna Mittal, Principal of the Institute, Dr. Ashok Kumar, Dean of Agriculture Department and Dr. M. Naeem, Head of the Department. The chief guest of this program was Dr. Ankit Pal, Food Processing Unit-II, Patnanjali, Haridwar.

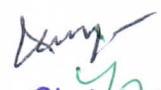

Dr. Ankit Pal told the students that due to increasing population and decreasing land, increasing production is a matter of challenge. Food processing is a critical component of agriculture, determining the quality, safety, and nutritional value of food products. With the latest advancements in technology, innovative food processing methods have been developed that offer significant benefits to the agriculture industry and consumers alike. In this article, we will explore the latest developments in advanced food processing technologies and their impact on agriculture and food production. The use of advanced food processing technologies in agriculture provides numerous benefits and advantages. Some of these include:

- Improved food safety: Advanced food processing techniques, such as high-pressure processing, effectively eliminate harmful microorganisms that can cause foodborne illnesses.
- Enhanced food quality: Advanced food processing methods help to retain the freshness, flavor, and nutritional value of food products, resulting in higher quality food products.
- Increased efficiency and productivity: By reducing waste and streamlining processes, advanced food processing technologies can increase the efficiency and productivity of the agriculture industry.
- Sustainability: By reducing food waste and increasing the shelf life of food products, advanced food processing techniques can promote sustainability in the agriculture industry.

He also explained advanced food processing technologies have numerous applications in the agriculture industry. Some of the most common applications include:

- High-Pressure Processing (HPP): HPP is a non-thermal food preservation technique that uses high pressures to eliminate harmful microorganisms and extend the shelf life of food products.
- Pulsed Electric Field (PEF): PEF is a food processing technique that uses short pulses of electric field to inactivate microorganisms and increase the shelf life of food products.
- Ultra-filtration: Ultra-filtration is a food processing technique that uses a membrane filtration process to separate food components based on molecular size, thereby improving the quality, safety, and nutritional value of food products.

Dr. Ashok Kumar briefed the students about Traditional food processing methods such as thermal pasteurization and chemical preservation, have been used for many years to produce food products. However, these methods have limitations and can negatively impact the quality, safety, and nutritional value of food products. In comparison, advanced food processing techniques offer numerous benefits and are increasingly being adopted by the agriculture industry. Here is a comparison of traditional and advanced food processing methods:

Traditional Food Processing Methods:

- Preserving food through methods such as salting, smoking, or canning
- Processing food using heat and pressure to kill harmful bacteria and improve shelf life
- Adding preservatives to food to extend its shelf life

Advanced Food Processing Methods:

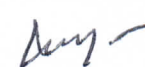

- Non-thermal processing techniques such as high-pressure processing and pulsed electric field, which preserve food quality and safety while reducing the need for preservatives.
- Minimal processing techniques that aim to preserve the nutritional value and freshness of food as much as possible, such as ultra-filtration and high-pressure homogenization.
- Automated food processing systems that improve efficiency, reduce waste, and increase food safety, such as robotics and machine vision systems.

Dr. Sashank Kumar told about the Advanced food processing methods offer many advantages over traditional methods, including improved food quality, increased efficiency, reduced waste, and enhanced food safety. By embracing these technologies, we can help to create a more sustainable and efficient food industry that is better equipped to meet the demands of a growing population. The field of advanced food processing technologies is constantly evolving, and new trends and developments are emerging. Some of the potential future trends include:

- Increased automation: Automation and robotics are likely to play a bigger role in food processing in the future, reducing the need for manual labor and increasing efficiency and productivity.
- Greater emphasis on sustainability: The agriculture industry is increasingly focused on sustainability, and this trend is likely to continue in the future, with advanced food processing techniques playing a key role in reducing food waste and promoting sustainability.
- Integration of data and analytics: Data and analytics are becoming increasingly important in the agriculture industry, and this trend is likely to continue in the future, with advanced food processing technologies being used to collect and analyze data to improve food production and sustainability.

Dr. H.S. Rathor explained about Despite the many benefits of using advanced food processing technologies, there are also some challenges and limitations that must be considered.

- High Initial Investment: Advanced food processing technologies can be expensive to implement and maintain, especially for small farmers and processors. The cost of purchasing, installing, and operating these systems can be a barrier for many agricultural businesses, especially in developing countries.
- Technical Expertise: The operation and maintenance of advanced food processing technologies often require a high level of technical expertise, which can be a challenge for farmers and processors without the necessary training and experience.
- Lack of Infrastructure: In many rural and remote areas, the necessary infrastructure such as electricity and water supply, is not available or is unreliable, making it difficult to implement advanced food processing technologies.
- Food Safety Concerns: While advanced food processing technologies can help to improve the safety of food, they can also pose risks if they are not used correctly. For example, if food is not processed at the correct temperature or pressure, it can result in the growth of harmful bacteria and cause foodborne illnesses.
- Resistance to Change: Some farmers and processors may be resistant to changing their traditional methods, and may be unwilling to adopt new technologies that are unfamiliar to them.
- Despite these challenges, the benefits and advantages of using advanced food processing technologies in agriculture are clear. By improving food quality, safety, and sustainability, these technologies have the potential to revolutionize the way we produce and consume food.

Dr. M. Nayeem concluded this program and explained as advanced food processing technologies are changing the way we produce and consume food. These technologies are enabling farmers to produce high-quality, safe, and nutritious food more efficiently and sustainably. While there are some challenges and limitations to using these technologies, the benefits and advantages make them a valuable investment for the future of agriculture and food production. By staying informed about the latest developments and trends in advanced food processing technologies, we can ensure that we are well-equipped to meet the demands of the rapidly-changing food industry.

During the program the Principal of the Institute Dr. Prema Mittal, Dean Academics Dr. Omveer Choudhary, Head IQAC Dr. Vineet Sharma, Dr. Vikrant, Dr. Anjali Jhankar, Dr. Abid Ali, Dr. Sachin Sahu, Dr. Rajkumar, Mr. Jamal and all the students were present.

Report

Agriculture Department has been conducted a Work shop on "Introduction to Intellectual property Rights (IPR), Importance of IPR in Modern Global Economic Environment" for one week. The intellectual property rights (IPR) are intangible in nature and gives exclusive rights to inventor or creator for their valuable invention or creation. In present scenario of globalization, IPR is the focal point in Global trade practices and livelihood across the world. Intellectual property rights (IPR) refer to the legal rights given to the inventor or creator to protect his invention or creation for a certain period of time. These legal rights confer an exclusive right to the inventor/creator or his assignee to fully utilize his invention/creation for a given period of time. These Intellectual property rights (IPR) are territorial rights that can be registered with a legal authority in some presentable or tangible form which can be sold or bought or licensed, similar to physical property. Intellectual property rights are also described as "a legal framework for contractual agreements concerning technologies, which encourage the institution of 'markets for technology', making easier the international transfer of technology and its diffusion at the local level." Intellectual Property rights incentivize entrepreneurs to keep pushing for new advances in the face of adversity. IP rights facilitate the free flow of information by sharing the protected know-how critical to the original, patented invention. In turn, this process leads to new innovations and improvements on existing ones. Strong and Enforced Intellectual Property Rights Protect Consumers and Families. Strong IP rights help consumers make an educated choice about the safety, reliability, and effectiveness of their purchases. Enforced IP rights ensure products are authentic, and of the high-quality that consumers recognize and expect. Different Types of Intellectual Properties Right., like copyright, trademark and patent. Copyright secures a tangible form of expressions like music, painting or a book, it does not shield the idea, but how the idea is expressed. Copyright registration is one of the most widely used IP right granted to the authors for their original creative work including both published and unpublished work. In case of Patent. it is used for preventing unique creation from being used, sold, by another party for a set time period. In short, a sovereign authority grants the IP right to the inventor after evaluating its feasibility. In case of trademark it's including the name and identifying logo or design that a company or individual uses to differentiate itself from his rivals. This unique design or symbol makes it easy for a customer to easily identify with products and services and connect with the brand value of the business. IP is often divided into two main categories: Industrial property includes patents for inventions, industrial designs, trademarks and geographical indications. Copyright and related rights cover literary, artistic and scientific works, including performances and broadcasts. Indian IPR Laws fully conform to the Agreement on Trade Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights under WTO aegis. Adopted in May 2016, the IPR Policy is a giant leap by the Government of India to spur creativity and stimulate innovation. The scope of IPR, Industrial Properties refer to patents or invention, trademarks, trade names, biodiversity, plant breeder rights, and other commercial interests. A patent gives its holder exclusive use of the intellectual property for the purposes of making money off the invention.

Advantage of the workshop & Future Prospects:

- IPR provide a strong incentive for individuals and businesses to invest time.
- Effort and resources in developing new ideas, products.
- As technology advances and the digital world continues to grow, so too will intellectual property rights. We can only hope that the future of IP rights is one in which creators have a better chance to protect their creations from misuse or exploitation.
- Technologies by granting creators and inventors exclusive rights to their creations.
- It provides for the grant of exclusive rights to inventors for their inventions, which must be novel, involve an inventive step, and have industrial applicability.
