expert discussion happened with keynote speaker on the awareness regarding environmental issues. He shared his knowledge and experience with the faculties and students. He inspired the students with his speech. In his remarks, he stated no degree is essential to save the environment; instead, environmental protection has to be part of our way of life; only then protecting and promoting the environment can be done. He advised the students to work more and more in alternative energy, waste management, sustainable development, sewage treatment, and the prevention of toxic gas emissions to avoid pollution of the environment.

Dr. Saurabh Jain, Dr. Rahul Arya, Mr. Ankit Kumar and five students presented their paper related to the environmental issues in the university. There were 87 students and teachers attended this seminar. In brief, participants highlighted that use of Polythene, Disposable Crockery in canteens, Resources and energy, Transport, Waste, Pollution and litter, Sustainable consumption are the main environmental issues in the university. They also suggested that making rules and guidelines regarding the use of polythene, disposable crockery and other issues along with environment awareness program is the only solution. Every stakeholder is responsible for the environment So, they must discharge their responsibility regarding environmental issues properly.

Overall, the seminar was technically excellent, thereby receiving massive coverage in almost all of the daily newspapers of Hindi & English, etc.

At the end, the program Dr. Saurabh Mittal, HOD, Commerce Department shared his knowledge and experience with the participants delivered a vote of thanks to everyone.
